THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent circulation in Washington three times larger than that of any other paper in the city. As a local NEWS paper and Advertising Medium it has no competitor.

Representatives of the Grand Army and of upon the Capital of the late confederacy and their slogan was the old familiar soldier cry: "On to Richmond." They move, however, upon our neighboring city, not in the terrifying panoply of war, but bearing gifts and fraternal, peaceful tokens. They go to make formal presentation of a ward which the G. A. R executive citizens' committee of this city has fitted up for the use of disabled confederate veterans in Richmond, in recognition of the hearty hospitalities tendered Union veterans in Richmond on the occasion of the recent G. A. R. encampment in Washington. The event is another nail in the coffin in which sectional differences are been incorporated in her organic law since buried. It is another reminder that the war is November 3, 1776; it has been upheld by her over, and that south, north, east and west the flag of the Union floats over patriotic American servative people."

This movement "On to Richmond" is now reciprocated and will be so more and more tive audience the Sanitary League of the Disnotably by the counter movement from the trict of Columbia last night made its first bow south "On to Washington," not under the to the public. That it was well received is no leadership of Early or Stonewall Jackson, but more than was expected, for the organization in peaceful march upon the capital of the re-exclusively by the Union of which he is a part. At Washington all Americans come together on equal terms with a common interest. The west learns the east, the north the south veloped and patriotism is strengthened. In American patriotism remains.

The chair manship of the committee on relations with Canada now belongs to Senator Murphy, who is untried in national affairs, who could not therefore have inspired his associates with confidence and who must have captured this prize through the activity of his chief-David Bennett Hill. Other opponents of President Cleveland have prospered, too. Senator Pugh is chairman of the committee on the judiciary, Senator Ransom is at the head of the committee on com merce and Senator Vance controls the committee on privileges and elections. The noncombatant can view the struggle with unconcern, but those who are deeply interested in the wel-

When Congress at the close of its last session gave the District of Columbia a liquor law it also bequeathed to this unfortunate community several legal complications, but the difficulties are surely being enaggerated. Without entering into any discussion of the somewhat complex situation it may be proper to ask the authorities how the contentions of those who seek the removal of all restrictions can English." avoid being ridiculously illogical. It is claimed by those who secured licenses under the repealed law that the old law is alive and of full effect in so far as authority to sell liquor under their licenses is concerned, and yet that same law is declared to be dead when it is invoked to punish infractions of the regulations under which the licenses were issued. It would seem to the uninitiated that if there is vitality in that part of the repealed law which authorizes men to engage in the liquor traffic on conditions different from those required under the existing law there is also vitality in that part of the repealed law which regulates this authorized traffic and provides penalties for infractions. It will be a very extraordinary and cold at the same time, can destroy the old it!" penalties but leave the old licenses untouched. can do away with every safeguard and restriction provided for the benefit of the public and yet preserve the grant of authority to traffic in liquor conceded under the old law to the licensed liquor dealer. It would seem, if the old law is cut up root and branch, with no exceptions or qualifications whatsoever, that the authority to sell liquor granted under it would be as worthless as the power to punish provided by it, and that if the authority to sell continues in spite of the repeal the restrictions in respect to the manner of sale must also continue.

There is great rejoicing in the camp of those who are opposed to the single-tax scheme and corresponding depression in the ranks of Henry George's followers, for the Maryland court of appeals has decided that a tax upon land alone for the support of the state government or of any part of it, or the government of any county or municipality is not in accordance with the provisions of the state constitution and cannot therefore be enforced. Hvattsville will be especially interested in this conclusion, and Myattsville is one of Washington's most lourishing suburban attachments the interest extends into this city. On the first day of July last the single-tax system was formally put in operation at Hyattaville, but not until there had been much dissension among those who enjoy the delights of residence in that locality. In the minor courts there was argument that promised to be interminable and in every home within the region directly affected but one conversational topic had any chance. And now the question has been settled and until the entire state of Maryland is converted to the theories of Henry George and his most estimable disciple, Mr. Jackson H. EXHIBITION OF KETSTONE BEATER, ONE-MINUTE COPPEE POT and PERFECTION MEAT

There is no mark of beauty more precious than a beautiful complexion. Every feature of the face may be regular-in fact, strikingly classical, and yet the most perfect contour and regularity of feature will be spoiled if the complexion has imperfections or is unfortunately diseased in any manner. More money has been spent removing defects in the complexion than is ever dreamed of by those who have never investigated the subject. Authorities are frequently quoted as saying that the average person will disregard the symptoms of some grave disease and run the risk of losing life itself through neglect of its forewarnings when they will spend hundreds of dollars and many sleepless nights striving to get rid of and worrying over some simple facial disfigurement. Extravagant bills can be saved and peace of mind secured at once if they will only
